Fancy yourself
as a film star?

If you feel that you come across better in person than on
your CV, Videocruit may help you get that next job

Our age is one of constant Changes to the technology that surrounds us. It is just over fifteen years ago that the fax became a perfect recruiters tool to speed up the distribution of CV's to prospective employers. However, other than our use of email today, the recruitment marketplace has not really embraced the use of new technology, and certainly not the use of audio visual aids. Videocruit Changes this in providing a client with a résumé that can include a short Mpeg, allowing them to actually see the person, and from a jobseekers point of view; it gives you five minutes to show the employer who you really are.

If you are looking for a job and want to really get in front of that employer, or if you are tired of sifting through piles of faceless CV's, jump into the twenty first century and come to www.videocruit.com
